The Pictures

TOP — Gov. Orval E. Faubus joined Washington Wednesday afternoon in celebrating the centennial of the old Hempstead county-seat town's service as the Confederate capital of Arkansas, 1863-65.

Picture shows the governor registering at the restored capitol-museum flanked by the ladies of Washington in colonial dress.

MIDDLE — Governor Faubus transacts state business at the historic Confederate capitol, surrounded by television and press cameramen. The governor was accompanied to Washington by Mrs. Faubus; C. R. Thornbrough, his executive secretary; and Mrs. Della Lu Tyson, his secretary.

Other state officials attending the Centennial celebration included: Secretary of State Kelly Bryant and Mrs. Bryant, formerly of Hope; State Land Commissioner Sam Jones, State Treasurer Nancy J. Hall, and Attorney General Bruce Bennett.

Rebel Yell Sounds Again at Washington

In 1863, advancing Union troops forced the movement of the seat of Arkansas' government from Little Rock to Washington.

The era—1863 to 1865—was revived for one day Wednesday without the advance of federal soldiers, but something decidedly Confederate did come up: The Rebel Yell.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus and a host of other constitutional officers commemorated the 100th anniversary of the day when Washington became Arkansas' state capital by appearing at this community of some 325 persons and completing some minor state business.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, one of the officials on hand, said in a memorandum that the display of Confederate flags and a rousing Rebel Yell now and then was a healthy privilege and part of the national heritage.

In the memorandum, addressed to the state's newspaper publishers, Bennett noted tremendous sales of Confederate flags in recent years and called it a healthy public attitude.

A $25 a plate dinner concluded the ceremony Wednesday night. The money will be used to restore historical buildings at Washington.

Faubus signed a few minor proclamations and made some appointments, mostly Justices of the Peace, while in Washington. He registered at the building that was the Confederate capital of Arkansas in 1863 and was greeted there by a dozen or so women dressed in costumes of the 1860s.

With the governor were Clarence R. Thornbrough, executive aide to Faubus, and Mrs. Della Lu Tyson, secretary to the governor.

Other state officials on hand were Secretary of State Kelly Bryant, Land Commissioner Sam Jones, Treasurer Nancy Hall, members of the Arkansas Supreme Court and some legislators.

Clothing Is Taken, Youth Questioned

A 16-year-old Negro stock boy at Lewis McLarty Store is being held for investigation in connection with the theft of $448 worth of women's clothing from the store Police Chief Jack Brown said today.

The clothing was discovered hidden upstairs over the Capitol Barber Shop in rooms that have been vacant for years. An outside ladder was used to get into the rooms. Officers Long and McCulley made the discovery when they thought the building was on fire several nights ago.

Officers said the clothing had apparently been taken a piece at a time over a period of weeks and it would almost require a complete inventory to discover the thefts. The clothing has been identified by store officials.

Kiwanians Hear Musical Program

Mrs. Haskell Jones and Mrs. B. C. Hyatt entertained with a musical program Tuesday before Hope Kiwanis club on a program arranged by George Frazier.

Mrs. Jones was featured in four vocal numbers accompanied by Mrs. Hyatt at the piano. Two of the songs were from poems, set to music by Mrs. Lillian Routon.

Guests included Hulian White, Jimmy Jones, Jr., Kenneth Daniels, Bill Routon and two sons, a Mr. Roper of Russellville and Max Uzell of Little Rock.

Poppy Day Plans Are Completed

The American Legion Auxiliary of the Leslie Huddleston Unit 12 has announced that the 1963 annual Poppy Day observance will be Saturday, November 9 in honor of more than a half million who died and the million Americans who were wounded in the world wars and the Korean conflict.

Mrs. Alice Formby, Auxiliary Poppy Chairman, says that the memorial flowers are made by veterans in hospitals under the direction of the American Legion Auxiliary.

All funds received from the observance will go directly to disabled veterans, to rehabilitation, or to the families to educate war orphans and provide financial assistance for needy children.

Helping in plans for the observance are Cookie Jones, county chairman, Mrs. Joe Jones, Mrs. Inez Compton, Mrs. Cecil Weaver, Mrs. Rachael Edmiston, and junior members of the auxiliary.

Resuscitation Saves Youth

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — Rickey Roland, 3, of Springdale, stopped breathing Wednesday after a car-motor scooter accident, but a Washington County resident revived the boy with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Al Houser of near Springdale revived the boy after about five minutes.

Rickey and Doyle Roland, 14, were on a motor scooter which collided with a truck one mile south of Springdale on U.S. Highway 71. The truck was driven by J. L. Hill, 22, of Fayetteville.

The boys were taken to a Springdale clinic for observation.

Heart Ailment Lowell Thomas Has

DETROIT (AP) — Lowell Thomas, 71-year-old radio news commentator, world traveler and author, was admitted today.

Officials said he was in satisfactory condition. Thomas reportedly was suffering from a heart ailment.

He appeared at a testimonial dinner Wednesday night to honor George F. Pierrot, host of a locally televised adventure program.

U.S. Figures Russia Will Ignore Warning

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite their bitter protests, the Western Allies expect Russia to throw more roadblocks across the highway into Berlin.

This was reported Wednesday by authoritative sources after the Allies accused Moscow in a diplomatic note of arbitrary and unjustified action in delaying an American Army convoy for 42 hours. The convoy was finally waved through Tuesday night.

Neither the protest nor the fact that the Americans eventually were allowed to proceed means that this gloomy chapter of U.S.-Soviet relations can be closed, authoritative sources warned. They said that top officials of the administration agree the West must expect similar or other harassments in and around Berlin.

This is the result of the first, hasty assessment of this latest Soviet attempt to make the United States, Britain and France accept Russia's rules on the autobahn, the highway connecting Berlin with the West. A more scientific evaluation will follow.

The aim will be to find the answer to this question: Why did the Soviets do what they did?

Southwest Bar Group Picks Officers

Circuit Judge Lyle Brown of Hope was the principal speaker in Arkadelphia Tuesday at a regular meeting of the Southwest Arkansas Bar Association.

Lawyers from Clark, Hempstead, Howard, Lafayette, Miller, Nevada, Pike, and Sevier Counties heard Judge Brown tell of the activities and work of the Judicial Council, consisting of Circuit, Chancery and Supreme Court Judges and the special activities of various committees of the Council in relation to the statewide study being made by the Judicial Commission regarding possible redistricting of the Judiciary in Arkansas.

James H. Pilkinton of Hope acted as moderator of the program. He introduced Talbot Feild, Jr. who gave the Legislative background leading to the enactment by the last General Assembly of the Judicial Commission.

Mr. Pilkinton, who was appointed to the Judicial Commission by Governor Orval E. Faubus, explained the duties and reported on the work of the Commission. He in turn introduced Judge Brown. The program ended with questions and answers by a Panel consisting of Judge Wesley Howard of Texarkana, Judge Bobby Steel of Nashville, and Judge Royce Weisenberger of Hope.

The Association elected as officers for 1964, LeRoy Autry of Texarkana, President; W. F. Denman, Jr. of Prescott, Vice President; and Talbot Feild, Jr. of Hope, Secretary-Treasurer. R. L. Searcy, Jr. of Lewisville is the immediate Past President.

Rockefeller Clan Met for Discussion

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president today and said he would enter the New Hampshire and other presidential preference primaries between now and the Republican National convention next July.

"I have reached this decision because I believe that vital principles are at stake in the next presidential election," Rockefeller said in a statement to a gathering of newsmen at the state capitol.

Rockefeller said: "These principles and the policies to best support them must be brought before the American people and the delegates to the Republican National Convention for their thoughtful consideration."

Rockefeller renewed his charge that the national administration of Democratic President Kennedy had failed to understand and meet "the menace of international communism," to stimulate the economy and to strengthen the unity of the free world.

Rockefeller did not refer in his brief statement to his role as the underdog in what has been the undeclared contest for the nomination.

Nor did he refer to his divorce and remarriage, which have been largely blamed for his currently poor standing in polls on the nomination.

Rockefeller proposed that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and other potential candidates also enter the New Hampshire primary.

"It is my sincere hope that other candidates will make use of the (primary) so that all of their views will be clearly known," he said.

"The New Hampshire primary presents an excellent opportunity to do so, forthrightly and undiluted by fence-straddling, or doubletalk of any kind."

Rockefeller, who did not mention Goldwater by name, has been challenging the Arizona senator to join him in a series of debates to determine what positions the Republican party should take on major issues.

Goldwater has refused on grounds of party unity.

The governor arranged to leave for New Hampshire immediately after his announcement.

Rockefeller, who has sought in recent months to associate Goldwater with extremism, said he was certain Republican convention delegates would "write a platform and select a candidate consistent with the basic principles of the Republican party and the realities of the world in which we live."

He began reading his prepared statement without any preliminary comment. He concluded the reading with a "Thank you" and swept out of the room before newsmen could buttonhole him for questioning.

The announcement was televised live on a national network (NBC's "Today" show).

The New Hampshire primary March 10 will be the first in the nation.

Rockefeller manifested interest in winning the presidential nomination in 1959 but abandoned that effort before reaching a formal announcement.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, countless thousands of American men and women have given their lives to perpetuate the freedoms and ideals that we enjoy in America, the Land of the Free; and

WHEREAS, an unnumbered legion of these same men and women are disabled and inhabit hospitals for veterans throughout our land; and

WHEREAS, these men and women have fashioned together a symbol of Flanders' Field, the poppy; and

WHEREAS, the women of the American Legion Auxiliary will on next Saturday, Nov. 9, 1963, offer these poppies for sale in downtown Hope, Arkansas.

NOW, therefore, I, Frank Douglas, Mayor of the City of Hope, Arkansas, do proclaim said day as Poppy Day in the City of Hope, Arkansas, and call upon each citizen to purchase and proudly wear in reverent memory of our heroic dead, a poppy dedicated to those who yet live and bear the scar of war fought for our freedom.

IN witness whereof I hereunto set my hand and affix the seal of the City of Hope, Arkansas, on this 4th day of Nov. 1963.

Cold Pushes Into Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A cold front in the northern plains will push toward Arkansas late Friday and may touch off some shower activity in the state.

The activity will spread to the south portions of the state Saturday, the U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said.

Early-morning mists hung over the delta area of the state today, but a warm sun was expected to remove them.

The forecast calls for fair and slightly warmer this afternoon and tonight, with increasing cloudiness in the east and partly cloudy to cloudy in the west Friday. Lows tonight will be 45 to 55 and highs Friday 78 to 85.

Highs Wednesday were in the 30s in the south and 70s in the north. Overnight lows ranged from a crisp 27 at Gilbert to the 30s in Northwest Arkansas and 40s elsewhere.

York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller Tuesday to discuss Nelson's formal announcement as a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

"My brothers and my sister and I heard his decision at a meeting in New York," Rockefeller said. "So it came as no surprise to us today."

He said the family discussed the move, but there was no question in Nelson's mind whether to run. "He told us he would run as hard as he knew how," Rockefeller said in an interview in Little Rock today.

"I'm glad he got his hat in the ring," Rockefeller said. "It gives us a chance to get the issues out into the open and that is of maximum importance as we move closer to the convention."

Asked if he would step up his efforts to boost his brother's bid for the nomination in Arkansas, Rockefeller said, "Any way I can be of help I would be less than a good brother if I didn't help him but my principal efforts and activities will continue to be building a strong Republican Party from the grass roots level. That's where elections are won."

Asked if he thought Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater would throw his hat in the ring soon, Rockefeller said he thought Goldwater "would have to give it serious thought." He said Nelson probably had announced early by usual standards and predicted that some candidates would not announce until after the first of the year.

Johnson Says U.S. Has to Feed World

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's merchant fleet is expanding rapidly while the U.S. cargo fleet is deteriorating, a Senate study report.

The study by the staff of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee was made public today. It said Russia is embarked on a maritime expansion program that in "a very few years will make her one of the foremost seapowers in the world."

"It is all too evident . . . that the Soviet Union recognizes the importance of the sea, and seapower in all its many facets figures prominently in its plan to dominate the world," the report declared.

The study focused on what it termed an enormous merchant ship construction program designed to double the size of Russia's 1960 fleet by 1965, triple it by 1970, and achieve a five to six-fold increase by 1980.

In 1961 and 1962, the staff report said, Russia increased its fleet from 873 to 1,002 ships and increased its total tonnage from 4,939,000 to 5,922,000. The number of American merchant ships decreased meanwhile from 954 to 843 and tonnage dropped from 13,345,000 to 12,810,000.

did, first in October and now, less than a month later, again?

The 12-vehicle convoy with 24 drivers and co-drivers, carrying 20 "passengers" or troops, was held up at the Marienborn checkpoint on the western end of the autobahn. The Soviets first requested that the passengers dismount, then said they would be satisfied if the tailgates of some of the vehicles would be lowered. Both requests were refused.

The basis for this refusal is Western insistence that the Soviets can make a headcount of passengers by simply looking into the vehicles if the troops number less than 30. If there are more, Western convoy commanders have instructions to let their men dismount for a headcount.

Premier Khrushchev, in talking Wednesday to a group of American businessmen, maintained that the trouble was caused by an American attempt to change "established procedures." He also claimed the dispute was solved only when the U.S. commander agreed to "observe the established procedure."

Khrushchev's first remark simply does not correspond with the truth, American officials said. Procedures were established years ago and were spelled out in writing to the Russians Oct. 29, the officials said.

Concerning the Soviet leader's second remark, the comment in Washington is that the convoy commander insisted on the "established procedure" right from the start.

Nursing Home Probe Planned by the ALC

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Legislative Council will investigate nursing home operations in Arkansas, but Rep. Raymond Mays of Cleveland County predicts it will find nothing amiss.

His comment came after a subcommittee investigation was directed Wednesday. Mays is chairman of the Public Health and Welfare committee, parent of the subcommittee.

Mays predicted the result of the probe would be a recommendation to increase the Health Department's force for supervising the homes, which care for the elderly.

The subcommittee will be headed by Sen. Graham Nixon of Conway, with Reps. Chadd Durrett of Union County and Clarke Kinney of St. Francis County as members.

Nixon said the subcommittee would determine whether patients in nursing homes are getting proper care.

Mays said he feels the investigation will serve a useful purpose by quieting rumors and gossip about alleged mismanagement of nursing homes.

Rep. Harry Colay of Columbia County proposed a council study of nursing homes.

Rep. Ray Smith of Garland County was named by Mays to head a subcommittee to investigate state services for the handicapped. Smith said his group would look into the possibility of engaging the University of Arkansas to prepare a comprehensive study of the field.

the problem of poor Negro education facilities.

Marshall said the state Department of Education, Gov. Orval E. Faubus and the Arkansas Education Association should form the committee to work with the ATA.

Negro schools in Arkansas today are as unequal nine years after the Supreme Court decision as they were after 60 years under the old separate but equal doctrine, he said.

The ATA convention opened Wednesday night with a meeting of the policy-making delegates assembly.

The group made plans to build a headquarters in Little Rock, work toward a Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) at Arkansas AM&N College, raised annual membership dues from $10 to $15 and told the budget committee to allocate $1.50 of the dues for the teacher welfare fund.

Quorum Courts Meet Nov. 17

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Quorum courts in Arkansas' 75 counties will meet Nov. 17 to levy taxes and make appropriations for county expenses in the coming year.

Date of the quorum court meeting was changed by the 1963 legislature from the second Monday in December as part of a package of law to facilitate work of county clerks in preparing tax books.

Date of the annual school election was changed from the first Tuesday in December to the last Tuesday in September. County courts cannot levy taxes until the school millage is fixed in the annual election.

Under the old laws county clerks had only a brief period to get the tax books ready for the first of the year.

Two Indicted as Spys by U.S. Jury

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted an American engineer and a Russian chauffeur today on three counts of conspiring to transmit information to the Soviet Union relating to this country's national defense.

The jury returned the indictments against John William Butenko, 38, of Orange, an engineer handling a secret Air Force contract, and Igor A. Ivanov, 33, chauffeur for a Russian trading company. Conviction could mean the death penalty.

The three were protected by diplomatic immunity.

Named as co-conspirators but not as co-defendants in the indictment were three members of the Soviet delegation staff at the United Nations who have been expelled from the United States.

Report on 'Fair Lady' Progress

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Progress report on "My Fair Lady" —

Eliza Doolittle has finally "got it." Her Cockney has been erased and she can move in Edwardian society with the elegance of a grand lady.

She was doing just that when I arrived on the set of "My Fair Lady." Eliza—Audrey Hepburn in a smashing get-up of jewels and white satin—was arriving at the Embassy Ball for her debut among the London swells. Accompanying her was her mentor, Professor Higgins—Rex Harrison, impeccable in white tie and tails.

The movie version of the non-stop musical hit is being filmed in sequence, a rarity in Hollywood where shooting schedules usually jump all over the script. Director George Cukor chose the beginning-to-end method because of the delicate nature of Eliza's transformation from dirty-faced flower girl to lady.

Cukor, dashing about the set, paused to comment on how the project was going.

"Very well," he said, knocking on a nearby ladder. "We may be two or three days behind schedule, but that is to be expected. The hardest part is over—the Ascot scene with all the horses and people."

"We still have some numbers to do. But with Hermes Pan doing the choreography, they fall into place. I expect we'll be finished by Christmas."

"It goes swimmingly," said the bright Miss Hepburn. "My face is now clean and I am now a lady. As for the singing, I have recorded all the songs, and the girl (soprano Marni Nixon) has recorded them, too. Now it is up to the studio as to which will be used. I expect the songs will emerge as a combination of us both."

"We are well over the hump," added Harrison. "I would say we are up to the interval in the play, and you recall that the first act was quite a bit longer than the second."

Harrison, who had played "My Fair Lady" on the stage 1,006 times, seemed heartened that his 1,007th and presumably last portrayal of Professor Higgins would be completed by Christmas.

Jack L. Warner dropped by the set to see how his $17 million are being spent. "Everything is bully, bully," he beamed at the two costars.

Wings to Reduce Time for Trip

DENVER (AP) — Putting wings on a U.S. spaceship to Mars may reduce to 300 days a round trip which planners have expected to require 30 months.

Robert B. D. Demore, program director for advanced Titan launch vehicles for the Martin-Marietta Corp., said in a speech Wednesday that astronauts using a wingless craft would have to wait 405 days on Mars until that planet is in proper orbiting relationship for the return to earth.

By using wings to shorten its own orbiting time and distance, he said the craft could be "orbit hopping" and get home much faster.

No target date has been set for such a flight.

Speculator's Profits May Show Decline

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Higher stock margin requirements may cut trading volume on the nation's exchanges and also the amount of profit a speculator may hope for—if he guesses right. And it's the speculator, as distinguished from the investor, that the Federal Reserve Board has in mind in raising the cash ante to 70 per cent from 50 per cent in buying stocks.

But the effect on stock prices themselves of changing the margin rules may be only temporary, if past experience is a guide. And the Fed, in truth, disavows any interest in swaying price trends.

Most stock buyers, whether individuals or institutions, probably will be affected very little, since they usually buy for cash as an investment.

Exchange officials stress that the percentage of the daily volume done on credit, although usually rising in boiling markets, is probably smaller than most onlookers suspect.

And exchanges and their member brokerage houses also have margin rules, usually calling for more cash to be put up well before a stock's price drops to the official margin set by the Fed.

But that regulator of credit notes that the total credit volume—borrowing from broker or from banks to buy stock—has risen 43 per cent in the last year to about $7 billion. In that period consumer credit, more familiar to most families, was going up 10 per cent.

Those who buy on margin usually do so because that way they can make more money than if they pay cash—if they've chosen the right stocks. They can lose more, too, if they've picked lemons.

Suppose you have $1,000 for stock buying. If the price of your choice is $100, say, you can buy 10 shares for cash. Monday, when the margin was 50 per cent, you could have bought—or got part equity in—20 shares. If the price goes up to $125 as you hope, you've made $25, minus commissions, if you paid cash. But you've made $50, minus commissions and interest on the loan, if you bought on margin.

If the stock drops sharply in price, of course, you may find your broker selling it and wiping out your account.

Today, with the margin at 70 per cent, you can't buy 20 shares on margin with your $1,000. You'd need $1,400 in cash plus the $600 your broker lent you. And the price would have to rise higher for you to get the same yield on the cash involved.

That's why it's bull markets

Zip Code Just Giant Rehearsal

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The ZIP code plan which the Post Office Department inaugurated last July is merely a giant rehearsal for the public and will not be in use for at least two years, according to Postmaster Otto Buescher of Columbia, Mo.

The Post Office does not have the equipment to automate the sorting of mail and will not have it for another two years or so, Buescher said.

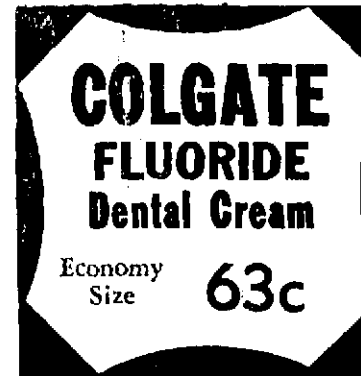

He explained: "The public is being prepared. People are slow in getting used to it, so the Post Office is starting now. It wants them to be ready when it is ready to go into full-scale automation."

That attract margin traders. And it's the recent bull market—and more particularly the notably rising volume of trading and of outstanding credit involved—that the Fed is probably eyeing in its move.

Texas, Baylor Is the Game of the Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was less of the crying towel over injuries and more of the let's-get-on-with-the-game attitude this week as Southwest Conference football teams tapered off their drills for Saturday's contests.

Texas and Baylor, both undefeated in conference play and both gunning for the title and the Cotton Bowl host spot, meet at Austin in what probably is the nation's feature grid attraction. The Longhorns, who have won their last three games by a total of 13 points, also will be trying to hold their No. 1 national ranking as the Bears try to crash into the top 10.

Rice plays Arkansas in a do-or-die battle at Houston. Texas Tech takes on Kansas State of the Big Eight in an intersectional tussle at Lubbock. Texas A&M gets in-and-out Southern Methodist at College Station, and Texas Christian plays Louisiana State at Baton Rouge.

TCU Coach Abe Martin was pleased Wednesday with the passing of Sophomore Kent Nix and the receiving of ends Darrell Mott and Bobby Sanders as his Owls prepared for LSU. At Baton Rouge, LSU was still stinging from the pasting at the hands of Mississippi last week and ran through an hour and a half of stiff contact work. They planned to taper off Thursday.

Baylor gave defense against Texas plays a long review, working three top units alternately against Texas offensive plays. Then the Bears turned to their own attack, first working on running and then polishing their vaunted aerial game against Texas defenses.

The Texas Longhorns concentrated on pass defense in preparing for Baylor and Don Trull. Looking like anything but No. 1 against SMU passes, the Horns worked long and hard against Trull combinations and then turned to offensive plays and signal drills.

SMU worked on the blocking sled getting ready for Texas A&M and also gave attention to their kickoff and receiving game plus signal drills. Several Mustangs were on the injured list, but Coach Hayden Fry expected them to all be ready for the Aggies. Coach Hank Foldberg told a College Station press conference he was "impressed with SMU." Then the Aggies divided their attention between offense and defense, stressing work against the Mustang stunting tactics.

Coach Jesse Neely prepared to meet Arkansas by promoting quarterback Walter McReynolds and fullback Russell Wayt to the first unit. The Rice team, with probably the most injuries in the conference, hoped to be near top shape by game time Saturday. Frank Broyles sent his November wonders, the Arkansas Razorbacks, through signal drills, stressing player assignments and pass defense. Arkansas usually works in pads on Wednesday, but Broyles put them through their paces this week in sweat clothes to "avoid any new injuries."

Lubbock, Coach J. T. King said he didn't like much of what he saw the Raiders doing in their last contact work before meeting Kansas State. The Raiders stressed goal line offense and passing in an effort to get a punch for their Big Eight rivals, K-State. King singled out three sophomores, halfback Hal Hudson, halfback Max Gatlin and fullback Charles Graham for special praise.

When To Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

By John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar period shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods,

Minor Major Minor Major	A.M.	P.M.
Nov. 10	4:10	10:50
Nov. 11	5:05	11:45

MR. AND MRS. WINNERS — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rogers of Lamar, Mo., won the Mr. and Mrs. World Series of Sport Fishing at Bull Shoals, Ark., by catching these six fish in a 15 minute period during a thunderstorm.

For the record, we like Central, 6-0.

It isn't a sparkling schedule in the Big Ten this week, but this is how we see the others:

LITTLE ROCK HALL 20, Camden Fairview 13. An easy one for the Warriors tonight, provided they don't ease up too much.

FORT SMITH 13, Hot Springs 0. And too, too easy.

BLYTEVILLE 13, El Dorado 12. The Wildcats have looked good losing, and they will again.

TEXARKANA 12, Jonesboro 7. It should be easy, but that Hurricane has built up one heck of an appetite this season.

Now the Class AA:

Joplin 7, Fayetteville 6. We picked a Missouri school over the Bulldogs last week, and lost. Let's try again.

Conway 21, Harrison 14. The rebuilding at Conway is way ahead of schedule.

Rogers 13, Van Buren 7. One of the better Class AA games.

Springdale 24, Subiaco 6. And going away.

West Memphis 13, Helena 7. With some unexplainable doubts.

Searcy 14, Newport 12. Maybe by a bad snap from center, or something like that.

Paragould 14, Piggott 0. It should be easy.

Marianna 14, Stuttgart 6. Riding with a good Class A outfit.

Benton 14, Malvern 6. A good match in a rich rivalry.

Russellville 21, Little Rock Catholic 19. Believing in the records.

Hope 19, Gurdon 0. Trouble free.

Magnolia 16, Nashville 7. It has to be.

Boston Has Made It 7 in a Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Make it seven in a row for Boston in the National Basketball Association in their usual manner, and make it six in a row for St. Louis in an unusual manner.

The Hawks did it with missed foul shots.

The Celtics remained unbeaten behind a brigade of double figure scorers, overwhelming Cincinnati's Royals 139-121 Wednesday night. The Hawks, however, needed every point they could get in a 112-110 victory over Baltimore.

They got them from the foul line, making 22 of 24. And the two that missed were tapped in by Zelmo Beaty for two-pointers. That little extra was the margin of victory.

In other games, the Los Angeles Lakers staged off a late New York rally and edged the Knicks 111-109, and Detroit ended a four-game losing streak by defeating Philadelphia 119-101.

Sam Jones was high for the Celtics with 28 points while Tom Sanders contributed 19 and Willie Naulls 16. Oscar Robertson was tops for the Royals with 24 while Jerry Lucas added 20 and pulled down 19 rebounds, the same as Boston's Bill Russell.

Rifle Club Offers Aid to Hunters

The Hempstead Jr. Rifle Club, in the interest of hunting safety and to provide a service to the public, will conduct a Sighting-In Day, next Saturday, at the rifle range at Fair Park.

At their request, Hunters will be assisted in sighting in their rifles and given information as to proper "zero" distances for shooting different caliber rifles and for hunting in dense or open country.

This is not intended to be a "live know it all and you know nothing" session on gun handling and hunting safety. Members of the Jr. Club realize that many hunters are well educated and experienced in the proper way to handle, zero and fire a rifle.

But on the other hand, each year, a great number of hunters will take the field in Hempstead County, with rifles that are unsafe, rifles that have never been sighted in or even fired, ammunition that is completely unsuited to the rifle and unsafe to fire and with rifles that the hunter is totally unfamiliar with himself.

The Club feels that familiarization with your rifle, proper zero and understanding of it, so that your chances of hitting the target rather than overshooting or undershooting are increased, and a knowledge of gun safety rules, will add greatly to the safety of deer hunting this season.

Hunters are asked to cooperate with this program, by bringing your rifles to the range with actions open and safeties on. Please do not bring your rifle to the firing line until a firing point is open, and then with the action still open and the ammunition still in your pocket and not in the gun.

Please obey any instructions that might be posted at the range and remember that we are not trying to regiment you but only to assist you if you so desire, a spokesman said.

Sinatra to Hold First Tournament

By CHARLES MAHER

Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Frank Sinatra's first golf tournament opened today on a course that has so many driving hazards it may be condemned by the National Safety Council.

On the average golf course, there may be out-of-bounds markers on four or five fairways. But at Canyon Country Club, scene of the $50,000 Sinatra Open, there are markers on 17 of the 18. And the one that has no out-of-bounds has a lake on one side.

Unintimidated, 150 professionals set out today on the first round of the 72-hole event, the 42nd of 43 tournaments on the 1963 PGA tour.

Obviously, the course favors the man with a consistently straight drive. And among those in the field with this competence are Mason Rudolph, Al Geiberger, Jay Herbert, Tommy Bolt, Bill Casper Jr., Doug Sanders, Billy Maxwell, Dow Finsterwald and Gay Brewer.

But the four-day tournament will not be just a driving test. The greens at Canyon Country Club are enormous. One, No. 4, is 192 feet long — nearly two-thirds the length of a football field.

Sponsor Sinatra, who has been playing golf regularly for about 2½ years, figures it will take a 276 to win. Par is 71, and 276 would be eight under. Seventeen of this year's top 25 money-winners are in the field. Among those absent are Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros and Gary Player, who rank first, second, third and fifth in earnings, in that order. The big name among the older players here is Sam Snead, doesn't often get this far west. Sam hasn't won a PGA tournament this year but ranks 17th among money-winners with $28,109.37.

Picking the High School Winners

By BILL SIMMONS

Who looked less like a winner in beating Conway of Region 3AA—North Little Rock or Little Rock Central?

That's one way of looking at the meeting between the two Big Ten Conference teams which each clipped Conway 7-6 in games the Class AAA schools, by almost any reasoning, should have lost.

Neither one looked very good. And they meet Friday night.

For Central, it is a week before the Nov. 15 battle with Pine Bluff's unbeaten and league-leading Zebras.

Many Will Shoot for World Meet

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Golfers from 60 countries will shoot at a $200,000 jackpot in the first Carling World Open Golf Championship at nearby Oakland Hills Country Club next August.

Details of the tournament, which has a $35,000 first prize, were disclosed Wednesday night by Richard Taylor, Carling's tourney director. He said the first round will begin Aug. 27.

Taylor returned last week from a world tour during which he worked out details of nine sectional tournaments in which the world's top golfers, professional and amateur, will compete.

Czechoslovakia is expected to be the only Communist country represented.

Taylor said Russia has not known good golfers and the same holds true of the other Iron Curtain countries.

The U.S. State Department gave tournament sponsors assurance that it would grant visas to any contestants, including Communists, except those from Communist China, North Korea and Albania, none of which is recognized by the U.S. government.

Each foreign player will have to qualify in his own country, Taylor said. For example, Gary Player, who has competed in many pro tournaments in the United States for the past few years, will have to qualify in his home country, South Africa.

The field will include 105 U.S. golfers. About 50 to 55 of them, including the top pros of the nation, will be picked by next July based on their showing in PGA tournaments.

In order to permit some of the lesser known local and regional U.S. pros to have a chance to qualify for the Carling Tournament, Carling will pick approximately 45 others based on their showing in some of next year's PGA events, winding up with the Hartford, Conn., Open July 26.

There will be 35 foreign entries, plus 10 other winners of certain golf tournaments designated by Carling to bring the field to about 145.

Tournament sponsors said it will be televised nationally in the United States and may be shown in Europe via Telstar if technical arrangements can be made.

Another Year of the Quarterback

By ED YOUNG

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — It's another "year of the quarterback" in college football with names like Staubach, Lottridge, Sidle, Myers, Mira and Beathard outstanding.

But when Virginia Tech Coach Jerry Claiborne, a slow man with a superlative, speaks of "the finest running quarterback in the country," he isn't talking about any of those All-America candidates.

Claiborne is speaking of his own Bob Schweickert, an old-fashioned triple-threat whose exploits have given Tech six straight victories and may give the Techmen their first Southern Conference title.

"I haven't seen Staubach and those other guys," said Claiborne. "They all are wonderful. I'm sure. But I'll take my quarterback. He is the best all-around quarterback I've ever been associated with."

Considering that Claiborne played at Kentucky with Babe Parilli and later helped to coach Alabama Pat Trammel before becoming head coach at Virginia Tech, that's quite a mouthful.

Schweickert, 6-foot-1, 188-pound junior from Bon Air, Va., is perhaps the most exciting back to hit the Southern Conference area in a decade or more.

Statistics tell part of the tale. In seven games, Schweickert has run or passed for 1,141 of the 1,989 yards that Tech has gained, has scored six of its 20 touchdowns and passed for three others.

Howard Is the Most Valuable

By BOB HOOBING

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Elston Howard, the take-charge catcher who spurred the hobbled New York Yankees to a fourth straight pennant, became the first Negro ever named the American League's Most Valuable Player Thursday.

The National League MVP has been a Negro 11 times in the past 15 years.

Howard amassed 248 points to 148 for runner-up Al Kaline of Detroit. The versatile backstop drew 15 first-place votes and was named on all 20 ballots cast by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Southpaw pitching ace Whitey Ford of the Yankees was third with 125 points, including three firsts. He was followed by Minnesota slugger Harmon Killebrew with 85 and the Boston pair of Carl Yastrzemski and Dick Radatz. Outfielder Yastrzemski was the batting champion and relief pitcher Radatz posted the lowest earned run average of 1.98.

The vote was announced by BBWAA secretary Hy Hurwitz in Boston.

With his MVP predecessors Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris sidelined by injuries for sizable portions of the season, Howard led the league champions with a .287 batting average. The 6-foot-2, 205-pounder paced AL receivers with a .994 fielding average, was fifth in the league with 28 homers and eighth in runs batted in with 85.

"When something like this happens, it makes baseball worthwhile," said Howard from his Teaneck, N.J. home into which he has just moved. "This is the greatest. You know, I was offered 35 or 40 college scholarships when I was in high school. I'm not sorry about choosing baseball, not now, especially."

The son of a New Madrid, Mo. high school principal, the 33-year-old Howard was master of the big, timely hit throughout the season.

Before the Los Angeles Dodgers swept the Yankees four straight in the World Series, Howard vowed he'd hit National League Most Valuable Player, pitcher Sandy Koufax.

Howard, who led the Yankees at bat against the Dodgers, got four of his five hits off Koufax, spoiling Sandy's bid for a no-hitter in the opener, and fanned only once against the strikeout king.

"I've been kind of on edge waiting to see what would happen in the voting," Howard admitted. "I had hoped I had a chance."

Howard has played the outfield and first base as one of the most versatile of the Yankee multistop athletes.

Missing 61 games in 1962 with a broken collarbone, outfielder Kaline finished second in the MVP voting, the batting race, .312, and the RBI competition, 101, with 27 homers.

Yastrzemski hit for a .321 average, giving the Red Sox their fourth Silver Bat winner in the past six years. He also led the league in hits, 183, and doubles, 40.

how Rote stepped into the quarterback job in 1957 after Bobby Layne was forced out with a broken leg. Tobin led the Lions to a 59-14 ramble over Cleveland in the NFL championship game.

Rote probably will be in another title game Dec. 22 because his San Diego team leads the Western Division of the AFL by 1½ games with a 6-2 record and six to go.

Bob Suci, Boston defensive back, should get an award for the most satisfying moment of the week. Released by the Houston Oilers in the final cut, the second-year pro from Michigan State, made an interception and ran 98 yards for Boston's fourth touchdown Friday night in a 45-3 shocker over Houston.

This Pulpit Empty for 14 Years

By HANS BENEDICT

Prague, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Under the pulpit in Prague's St. Vitus Cathedral, a lonely woman kneels in silent prayer.

A tourist guide, his voice echoing through the near empty nave, points out the 600-year-old Gothic splendor to a group of visiting Russians. One lights a cigarette in studied boredom.

An old priest shuffles about in the shadows.

The pulpit is closed by an iron grill with a rusty lock. It has been empty nearly 14 years. The last to preach from it was the Most Rev. Josef Beran, archbishop of Prague and Roman Catholic primate of Czechoslovakia.

Communists took over Czechoslovakia in 1948. On a Sunday in June 1949, Archbishop Beran preached from his pulpit (that there is but one ruler above us—God.) He was arrested on the spot.

The regime released the 75-year-old archbishop last month. Officially a free man, he is still barred from resuming office. Defiant and in indomitable spirits, Archbishop Beran now awaits the outcome of negotiations between the regime and the Vatican. He lives in a Catholic old-age home in the nearby village of Mukarov. On Sundays he celebrates Mass on a tiny altar flanked by wooden statues of Holy Mary and St. Joseph and covered with coarse linen.

His way from the gilded magnificence of St. Vitus, through police interrogation and solitary confinement to the little house in Mukarov symbolizes the course of Czechoslovakia's Catholic Church.

Places of worship throughout the country, save a few serving as cultural showpieces, are dilapidated. Many have been closed. The clergy, robbed of revenues since all church property was socialized, lacks funds for repairs. Parochial schools were shut down long ago.

Officially, parents are free to send their children to religious lessons but few do. "I would lose my job if I let my boy go to the priest," a Prague factory worker said.

Of the country's 7,000 Catholic priests before the Communist takeover, less than half are allowed to practice their vocation. The others are believed to be in jail or to have taken jobs in factories or collective farms.

The Protestants, concentrated mainly in Moravia and the western part of Czechoslovakia, are relatively better off than the Catholics. With the help of Protestant officials holding influential positions in the economy, they managed to work out a kind of truce with the regime on a live-and-let-live basis.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Yaggar Nasredinova, only woman vice president of Russia's Supreme Soviet, arrived in London for a two-day unofficial visit.

She told newsmen: "I would like to meet people and visit places of interest. I have never been to London before."

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones left for Washington, where he will consult with government officials. An announcement Sunday said Jones has been called home to review "current events in Southeast Asia generally and Indonesia particularly."

Jones said he would return to Jakarta in about a month.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall announced that 31 whooping cranes have arrived at their wintering grounds in Texas. They included seven birds born this year, largest number of young birds counted in the flock since the winter of 1958-59.

"For once," said Udall, "a report on the population explosion is good news."

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Ex-Congressman Walter Judd says he isn't a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, but he's going along with plans to promote him as the nominee.

Judd, who is visiting Michigan, said GOP leaders in Minnesota, his home state, are supporting him.

"I haven't sought the nomination and I don't seek it now," Judd told a news conference.

"But I have consented to this effort to promote me."

Judd lost his seat in the House in the 1960 election.

Finals Hours of Viet Nam Regime

EDITOR'S NOTE—Censorship and faulty communications have kept many details of the revolt which overthrew South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem locked in Saigon. In the following dispatch, Associated Press correspondent Malcolm W. Browne tells of Diem's last hours.

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A pre-dawn flight through subterranean tunnels, a speeding car ride, a visit to a suburban church, a trip inside an armored personnel carrier and sudden death.

Such were the final hours of Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu. Such was the death of a regime and a 9-year era of Vietnamese history.

The cycle of violence, revenge and more revenge that has characterized Viet Nam through most of its history was repeated.

No two accounts of what happened to Diem and Nhu last Saturday morning are exactly alike. The handful of soldiers who attended the death of the two former leaders inside an American-made M113 personnel carrier are the only sure witnesses. Their accounts certainly will be tailored to put themselves in the best light.

Friends of the Diem regime call the deaths murder and a mark of shame against the new revolutionary government.

The government itself has declared Diem and Nhu committed suicide and has censored all cabled dispatches to the contrary.

All that is certain is that Diem and Nhu died of massive wounds, were spirited to a guarded hospital and swiftly prepared for burial.

According to various eyewitnesses along the line, military sources and others, it seems to have happened this way:

The scene was Gia Long Palace—a sumptuously furnished mansion that became the temporary home and headquarters of Diem's family on Feb. 27, 1962. On that date, two rebel Vietnamese air force fighter pilots bombed the presidential palace to rubble in an unsuccessful attempt to kill the family.

Gia Long Palace was ringed with anti-aircraft guns, tanks, walls and machine guns. There were extensive bunkers and an elaborate tunnel system.

Manning the fortifications inside the palace grounds Friday night were about 150 members of the elite palace guard.

There would have been several hundred more if the rebel forces had not taken the precaution Friday afternoon of laying siege to the palace guard garrison five blocks away. Rebel tanks lined up fender to fender and blasted it to dust.

Ft. Smith Burglar Gets $1,500

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Burglars took between $1,000 and $1,500 in cash and a large amount of merchandise from the Kimmons Radio and Television shop and sporting goods store over the weekend, police reported today.

Kimmons said 35 shotguns and rifles—7 pistols a number of knives and transistor radios and one portable television set were taken.

He said the thieves broke in through the back door.

Kimmons said he could not estimate the value of the merchandise taken.

Many arrived in Tokyo for a 13-day visit and told newsmen his country welcomes Japan's tendency to strengthen cooperation with Western Europe.

Luebke didn't elaborate on the remark.

DOROTHY DIX

MOTHER-IN-LAW ON THE RAMPAGE

By Helen Worden Erskine

Dear Helen: My husband and I are perfectionists. We dwell in a beautiful house amidst lovely possessions. I am a fussy housekeeper and want everything just so. Don't misunderstand me. We live in our home completely—entertain, enjoy welcoming our friends and sharing with them the pleasure of our really fine furnishings, china and treasures.

My mother-in-law bangs into the furniture, knocks chairs and occasional tables, shoves the sofa against the draperies, slides the centerpiece over to the side of the dining table and can't use the telephone without disrupting it. I clench my teeth to keep from screaming in frustration. Everything is at sixes and sevens when she leaves.

My husband thinks her efforts to wreck our home symptomatic of secret envy. I try to give it for tat when visiting her but find myself unable to abuse any possessions, hers or mine.

How can I break her of this malicious habit without precipitating a scene? My husband wants to speak his mind but that would inevitably lead to a quarrel.

I have done everything I can think of, including picking up before her but she ignores my efforts. Our things last indefinitely while hers are constantly being replaced. For 20 years I've accepted her callous indifference but am at the end of my endurance. What shall I do—Nervous.

Dear Nervous: Heaven only knows what goes through your mother-in-law's thoughts when she visits your pin-neat home, but if you had an inkling, you would be on your way to winning the battle against your nerves.

I suspect your M-J-L resents your domestic neatness, and all the more so because you took her son away from her nice disarranged nest and made him wipe his feet outside, straighten wrinkles in the rug, and keep his shoes off the sofa. Her resentment may be deeply hidden, but every time she moves something off center in your house, she's telling you where she hurts.

If you'll practice this kind of empathy toward her, you can forgive her "trespasses." If she becomes destructive, however, it is your husband's responsibility to deal gently with her, telling her exactly what you both think of her conduct. Blood relatives. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my letter. "Mothers-in-law."

Dear Helen: How about a word of comfort to hemperked husbands? Those with wives who demand the newest clothes and house-furnishings, when the poor guys barely make expend-

Miss America Show Rated a Standout

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In a very special league, the annual Miss America Beauty Pageant is a standout.

CBS broadcasts of the pageant finals for the past three years are included in the Nielsen councilor Jim Case of Hot Springs gave her the sweetheart pin and certificate.

ratings list of the all-time top 10 television programs.

Tied at the top of the list, however, stands NBC's 1960 coverage of the presidential election returns. The inauguration of John F. Kennedy was the following January as seen on NBC ranked 10th.

Two of the biggest audiences in TV history were rolled up on the first weekend of October when the World Series was telecast by NBC—the Nielsen estimate was that the final Sunday game reached almost 28 million homes, the same figure rolled up by the election night coverage.

Other all-time popular shows were the space flight of John H. Glenn and the 1963 Rose Bowl game last January, both on NBC, and last spring's Oscar awards show on ABC.

It is an interesting list that suggests the TV public, more than anything else, likes real-life drama.

After coping with such earnest themes as alcoholism, cheating, and racial tensions, NBC's "Mr. Novak" will try a comedy Nov. 19 with star James Franciscus playing it for laughs.

"East Side, West Side," CBS' sober-sided series about a social worker, Monday night tried to show the dreary life of a young Negro couple trapped in a big city slum.

It showed teeming, garbage-littered streets and decaying, rodent-infested tenements. It raised the question of Negro job opportunities. And it showed the man's frustration and anger at his life. The show capped all this by having the couple's sleeping baby bitten by a rat.

The program ran into trouble because it tried to cram into the hour a treatment of the relationship of the young couple—to each other and to the world—after their baby died. There was too much going on to make any point clear.

Once the situation was exposed, the show left the audience feeling guilty and helpless about the lot of the couple, well played by James Carl Jones and Diana Sands.

Negro Elected in Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — An unemployed Negro has been elected to the Niagara County Board of Supervisors. He reportedly is the first of his race to win a seat on the board.

Joseph H. Profit, 28, a Democrat who came here from Alabama 10 years ago, defeated the Republican incumbent Tuesday, 1,176 to 1,131, in the 12th Ward. The ward has a Negro and white population.

Profit is a native of Montgomery, Ala.

Congress Takes, Gives on Fgn. Aid

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's like a gloomy class in arithmetic: subtract, add a little, subtract, subtract. This is the way Congress handles foreign aid, as it did in the past and is doing now.

One thing is sure: The President gets less than he asked. Hostility to the program grows yearly, in and out of Congress, as it has since it started in 1947. It's worse now. The aid in 16 years has gone over $100 billion.

Tactics and figures tell the mood and the story. Last year President Kennedy asked almost $5 billion. The House, always quicker with the clippers than the Senate, cut it fiercely. The alarmed Senate voted more than the House although less than Kennedy requested.

Because the two houses differed, they had to reach a compromise. The result: Congress voted roughly $4.8 billion, or, again roughly $200 million below Kennedy's figure of almost $5 billion.

But—and this is an important point—this was only the starting point. This was just Congress voting its authorization on how much could be spent. It was the ceiling. Congress still hadn't voted a dime for spending.

It had to do this in the next step: its appropriation bill. Some more pulling and hauling between the two houses, another compromise, and finally Congress voted about $4 billion, or $1 billion less than Kennedy's figure.

This year the same problem but with complications because Kennedy meanwhile had appointed a committee of distinguished citizens, headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, to examine the whole foreign aid program and make recommendations.

Last January Kennedy asked $4.9 billion, or almost as much as the year before. But then the Clay committee came in with its report which seemed to suggest, although this all got confused, Kennedy could do with $4.4 billion.

One of the most constant critics of foreign aid in Congress met this suggestion with some derision. This was Rep. Otto Passman, D-La. He said the committee suggestion was "absolutely meaningless."

He observed that Congress "cuts the President's foreign aid request an average of $1 billion each year" anyway.

Kennedy, repeatedly quick to compromise when he runs into trouble in Congress, compromised. Bowing to the Clay proposal, he said that instead of asking $4.9 billion he would settle for $4.5 billion. The House got to work.

On Aug. 25 House Republicans and Southern Democrats made Passman a good prophet by voting only $3.5 billion, or $1 billion less than Kennedy asked.

Kennedy, as he has before when his own Democrats teamed up with Republicans to give him a drubbing, denounced the Republicans and called the House action "shortsighted, irresponsible, and dangerously partisan."

Even Clay came to his rescue and said such a cut could "badly damage the U.S. position in the free world."

This criticism, in view of what followed, may have taken some of the economy out of the Republicans although, besides some outright opposition, there is a chilling coldness in the Senate to foreign aid.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee rejected the House figure of $3.5 billion—the billion-dollar cut—and decided on $4.2 billion, which is $300 million less than Kennedy asked but $700 million more than the House thought right.

But then the committee's bill went to the full Senate floor where a fight has been going on for days to chop the committee's figure. Finally Democratic and Republican leaders got together and decided.

What the House approved was too little but what Kennedy and the Foreign Relations Committee suggested was too much. So the two parties leaders said foreign aid should be $3.8 billion. The fight goes on; the Senate hasn't voted.

If it votes more than the House, there will have to be the inevitable compromise. But, when all that's finished, this will still be just the authorization, or top-limit figure, on foreign aid.

Then the two houses will have to vote the actual money to be spent in an appropriation bill. And, like last year, it may be $1 billion less than Kennedy wanted, which will mean even a smaller total than last year.

Freeways Could Hurt Beverly Hills

By DIAL TORGERSON

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Clifton Webb gazed at his sprawling, Mediterranean-pink adobe mansion, and wondered what it would look like with a freeway running over the top of it.

Said Webb: "No one ever thought it could happen here." But it could, and it might.

In all this city's Mediterranean-pink mansions—not to mention the glass-walled moderns, the French provincials and the Williamsburg colonials—there is a name to conjure fear.

The Beverly Hills Freeway.

The state has two freeways—one of which happened years ago to Hollywood, and the other which happened recently to West Los Angeles. It wants to link them so people can get from West Los Angeles to Hollywood.

To connect them, freeway builders announced that they planned the Beverly Hills Freeway—multiple lanes speeding traffic swiftly and smoothly through the sovereign city of Beverly Hills.

Then came a howl of complaints.

Rosalind Russell and Lucille Ball went to protest meetings.

Novelist Irving Stone wrote fund-raising letters for the freeway fighters. The anti-freeway Beverly Hills Improvement Association raised $60,000 almost instantly.

Residents of the hill section of Beverly Hills—which is, truly, one of the nation's loveliest residential areas—have decided unanimously that the best place for the freeway is a mile south, under Santa Monica Boulevard.

As Rosalind Russell explains it:

"It's called cut and cover, I believe. They cut out the space, put the freeway in it, and cover it over. And there would be no offramps, or onramps. Sort of like a tunnel, you might say."

Exactly like a tunnel, to be precise.

The Beverly Hills Improvement Association wants this cut-and-cover freeway tunneled through the business part of the city, from which neither fume nor commuter could presumably escape.

"There's no question but what a freeway is needed," said Miss Russell. "But they would not have to have offramps. It would only go through Beverly Hills for a mile and a quarter. People could get off before Beverly Hills, or afterward. That way Beverly Hills could be left intact."

The exact route through Beverly Hills won't be selected until perhaps January, and the freeway itself probably won't be built for 10 years.

The state plans, of course, to pay for any property condemned. The homes in the hillside area, where the proposed route runs, would cost an estimated $250,000 each.

Meantime, the state has to send delegates to each protest meeting to listen to the opinions of people who fear a freeway would harm Beverly Hills.

Swastikas, racial remarks and a Star of David in black were painted Thursday night on the white, one-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amos in a predominantly white neighborhood.

The Rev. Mr. Rounce and about 20 white members of his congregation painted over the slurs Saturday.

Under former Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Macleod was the Conservative leader in the House of Commons.

More Beef Feeding Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department predicted today that farmers will feed more beef cattle, slightly fewer hogs, and about as much poultry during the current marketing year as a year earlier.

This marketing year began Sept. 30.

Broiler production, the agency said, may be moderately higher in the 1963-64 marketing year.

However, it said domestic demand for broilers may be reduced somewhat by larger supplies of beef at lower prices than this year. Turkey production is expected to increase slightly above this year's volume.

A Foreign Office spokesman said topics included cooperation in Western defense, the political importance of 1964 tariff negotiations and U.S. support for the general aim of European integration.

Vice President and Mrs. Johnson are to be guests of Queen Juliana and her husband, Prince Bernhard, at dinner at the Soestdijk Palace tonight.

More Flooding In Italian Area

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A third day of unceasing rain caused flooding in a dozen north Italian towns today. Authorities ordered evacuation of scores of homes menaced by landslides.

High winds drove Adriatic tides far up the delta of the Po, breaking one dike and flooding acres of farmland and leaving many farm homes awash.

At Tortona, between Genoa and Milan, the Ossona River flooded the town. One resident drowned in a basement where he was sleeping.

Heavy rains increased the danger of landslides in the Grue and Borbera valleys south of Tortona. Rockfalls and mudslides blocked roads. Authorities ordered dozens of menaced homes evacuated.

Villages around Lake Maggiore were flooded by rising lake water, and landslides cut international highways between Italy and Switzerland.

U.S. Aid Cut Influenced Diem Coup

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Malcolm W. Browne, Associated Press correspondent in South Viet Nam where the military leaders overthrew the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem on Nov. 1, wrote this from there on Oct. 17:

"The United States has lighted the fuse of an economic time bomb under Diem's regime." He said this country had started shutting off economic aid to Diem last Aug. 21, when his special troops sacked the Buddhist pagodas.

Browne said "some Vietnamese opposition leaders have said that if only America could stop sending aid to the Diem government, military leaders would carry out a coup and set up a new government."

The Kennedy administration began shutting off the aid in several directions. When last Friday's coup was completed, Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who some considered the real ruler of Viet Nam, were dead and military leaders were in control.

Yet, although Browne said the Kennedy administration had started cutting down the aid last Aug. 21, news of it didn't start coming out of the administration until October, and then only in pieces at a time.

In a television interview Sept. 2 President Kennedy made known he didn't think the war against the Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam could be won without some changes in Diem's government. He said:

"I don't think the war can be won unless the people support the effort and, in my opinion, in the last two months the government has gotten out of touch with the people. With changes in policy and perhaps in personnel, I think (popular support) can be regained."

There couldn't be much doubt — when he mentioned changes in "personnel" — that he was suggesting Diem get rid of his brother who, as head of the secret police, had become hated. Diem wouldn't budge. Three days after Kennedy spoke Diem said: "It is I who make the decisions."

In another television interview Sept. 9 Kennedy seemed uncertain about what to do or how to do it. He said that day: "We have to deal with the government there. We are using our influence to persuade the government there to take steps which will win back support. We must be patient."

And he said "it would not be helpful at this time" to reduce U.S. aid to Viet Nam but he conceded reductions might bring desired changes "in the government structure there."

But, as Browne pointed out later, the Kennedy administration had already started to cut economic assistance to Diem Aug. 21 although news of it didn't start coming out until much later.

It can be seen now that the administration's reason for shutting off the aid was given by Kennedy in a news conference Sept. 12 although he didn't mention it directly. That day he said:

"We are for those things and those policies which help win the war there. What helps win the war we support. What interferes with the war effort we oppose."

"This is the test which I think every agency and official of the U.S. government must apply to all our actions, and we shall be applying that test in various ways in the coming months, although I do not think it desirable to state all of our views at this time. I think they will be made more clear as time goes on."

That phrase — "We are for those things and policies which help win the war there" — and the cutting off of aid may have been taken by the military leaders as a green light for their coup.

The cutting off of aid took three forms. First there was the direct economic aid. This country has been giving Viet Nam about $208 million in this form of aid yearly, and about $500 million in military help.

The Diem government's newspaper complained the Kennedy administration was doing this deliberately to force it to liberalize its policies. The administration was pretty vague about this cutdown, even when it let the news of it out.

On Oct. 21 the State Department announced this country would give no more aid to Diem's elite corps of airborne troops who were supposed to be fighting Communist guerrillas but were used by Diem to suppress the Buddhists. They were getting extra pay from this country.

On Oct. 23 this government took another step. It had been sending about $60 million worth of surplus food to Viet Nam and decided to cut down on that, too. So the administration's views, which Kennedy said "will be

ALGIERS (AP) — The Soviet Union and Algeria signed their first trade agreement Monday night, providing for a long-term exchange of goods worth at least $40 million a year.

Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev and Algerian Economic Affairs Minister Nachir Boumawa signed the agreement. Details were not announced.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists claimed today they have developed a substance which protects animal tissues from radiation.

An announcement by the government news agency Tass described the substance as "phenolic compounds." The compounds were said to be similar to those used to prevent spoilage of food.

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Women may join the Cambridge Union Society — the university's famous debating club — for the first time in its 148-year history.

Members voted 449-180 Monday night to let the girls in. Thirty previous polls had kept them out.

Lois Radice, 19-year-old economics student, was among the first to join.

"A wonderful night for the women of Cambridge," she said. "At last the men have had to admit that we are their equal."

The girls will get their first chance at debate next Tuesday when the motion will be: "Till death do us part is ridiculous."

Woman Sees Son Red China Holds

NEW YORK (AP) — A Yonkers, N.Y., widow, home from her third trip to Shanghai, says she was told by Chinese Communists during visits with her imprisoned son that if she broke any of 12 rules, "I would not be able to visit him again."

Mrs. Ruth Redmond, 65, whose son, High, has served 12 years of a life term for alleged espionage, said Sunday one of the most distressing rules was one that forbade her to talk to

Truck Spills 8000 Gallons of Gas

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A gasoline transport truck overturned at an intersection and spilled 8,000 gallons of gasoline today, starting a fire that spread to nearby woods and threatened homes and businesses.

Firemen from El Dorado and local refineries controlled the fire after a three-hour fight. There were no serious injuries and no major property damage.

But the truck driver, R. H. Haygood, 56, of El Dorado, was hurt when he kicked out a window to escape from the overturned truck. He was treated at a hospital and released.

The truck, owned by Wheeling Pipelines of El Dorado, overturned at the intersection of state Highway 7 and U.S. Highway 167 B, the city route. A Wheeling official said damage would amount to $40,000.

ASC Defends Its Boundary Changes

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said today it was within its rights in changing boundaries for committee election purposes. The Newton County ASC filed suit in U.S. District Court in Little Rock charging that the state committee altered the county boundaries to eliminate Republican control.

"It's our prerogative," said A. C. Mowery, state ASC director. He said Republicans did the same thing in 1954.

Mowery said the changes in the county lines for ASC election purposes was made to obtain a more equitable distribution of farmers. One of the areas has 27 farmers in it and another, 368, he said.

The suit asks that the state committee be enjoined from making boundary changes and from exercising any authority over upcoming ASC elections.

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 3, the 310th day of 1963. There are 55 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt pledged $1 billion worth of lend-lease aid to Russia in her defense against the invasion by Nazi Germany.

On this date: In 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected President of the United States.

In 1896, the Volunteers of America was founded in New York as a religious and philanthropic organization.

In 1926, Italian Dictator Benito Mussolini banned all opposition political parties, newspapers and public meetings.

In 1950, President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon won re-election by a landslide vote.

Ten years ago — U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. charged former President Harry S. Truman had promoted the late Harry Dexter White to a high government job in 1948 despite an FBI report which Brownell said showed White was spying for the Soviet Union.

Soy Bean Prices Shoot Upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soybean prices shot up 13 to 14 cents a bushel in most domestic markets last week in reflection of a heavy demand for the oncoming crop.

In a market report, the Agriculture Department said harvesting made rapid progress last week, but that farmers were tending to hold for possible higher prices. Beans offered found ready buyers at the advanced prices.

"Various trade analyses of the anticipated close balance between supply and demand this season, continued heavy export inspections, and reports of poor yields in Arkansas (a major producing state), labor troubles involving Canadian lake boats, and trade rumors of soybean and soybean oil export deals with eastern Europe were the major market factors," the department said.

TV Trend Trickles to Tot Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The medical and psychiatric trend of television has trickled down to puppet shows for tiny tots.

NBC's "Children's Theater," presenting the first of four special Sunday night, was a colorful little fantasy about a slow-witted, nearsighted giant who became so worried about his health he disappeared in a cloud of smoke.

"Quillow and the Giant" was a little more complicated than that. Adapted from a James Thurber story called "The Great Quillow," it was a morality tale about a townful of selfish people who are saved from the giant by a brave and humble toymaker.

There were some practical hints for young viewers, including a pointed suggestion to the giant that it was not polite to talk with his mouth full. For adults there also was some lively music with bright and often witty lyrics.

The hour was handsomely and very carefully produced. The credits listed both an educational adviser and a psychologist as consultants.

Highlights in History of Today

Today in History
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Nov. 7, the 311th day of 1963. There are 54 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1811, Gen. William Henry Harrison led 1,200 U.S. troops to victory in the Battle of Tippecanoe, Ind.

On this date: In 1659, the Pyrenees Mountains were fixed as the boundary between France and Spain, thus ending a 24-year war between the two countries.

In 1835, work was begun on the New York and Erie Railroad.

In 1917, Communist rule of Russia began when Nicolai Lenin and Leon Trotsky led the revolt which overthrew the government of Alexander Kerensky.

In 1954, a U.S. Air Force photo-reconnaissance plane was shot down by Russian jet planes over Hokkaido Island, Japan.

Ten years ago — Power and communication lines were reading Dylan Thomas on — of all unlikely places — Sunday night's Ed Sullivan variety show. He was the only big star on a show that usually abounds with them. Carol Lawrence, scheduled to headline the hour, was felled by laryngitis. The Burton bit, taped some time ago in London, more or less saved the day.

Since the highly publicized and disappointing premier of ABC's Jerry Lewis show, a lot of changes have been made.

On Saturday night, a subdued Lewis was relegated to introducing a long list of star performers, including Phil Silvers, Ethel Merman and Sid Caesar. But they were there to plug a movie in which they appear and plug it they did, again and again. Even big stars can be plucked in such circumstances.

Lewis, who loves the sound of big words even when he's not sure what they mean, introduced Miss Merman worshipfully, explaining that her Broadway shows were "bombastic."

Maybe Jerry's show is bombastic, Miss Merman's — never.

Keating Would Back Goldwater

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., says he would back Sen. Barry Goldwater for president next year if the Arizona conservative "would support a platform such as the Republican party wrote in 1960," Keating says.

The 1960 platform contained many liberal planks. One of those who helped draft it was New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who, like Goldwater, is an unannounced contender for the presidential nomination.

Keating appeared Sunday on the ABC "Press Conference" radio program.

Keating supports Rockefeller for the nomination.

Man Held on Murder Charge

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Virgil Powell, 41, operator of the Pastime Recreation Center in Pine Bluff, is held without bond on a first degree murder charge in the slaying of Ray Heffley, 31, of Stuttgart, last Monday.

The warrant was issued in Jefferson Circuit Court Thursday.

Heffley was shot above the left eye with a .45 caliber revolver in the back room of a Pine Bluff cafe.

No hearing has been set on the charge.

Time Might Rule Out Rights Bill

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has won the first big round in his attempt to get a civil rights bill through Congress this year. But he may be on the ropes, with no bill passed before the year ends.

Time, because there isn't much left of 1963, and the opposition of Southern Democrats in the Senate will work against him. There have been four main steps in this struggle so far, with two more still to come.

1. There was no indication until June 19 that Kennedy intended to ask Congress for a strong, new civil rights law this year. In the spring Negro demonstrations, with accompanying violence, built up tensions.

On June 19 he presented Congress with a fairly strong program. There was instant opposition from Southern Democrats. Republicans, or some of them, in House and Senate were rather reserved.

The bill, as a necessary preliminary before it could get to the full House for a vote, went to the House Judiciary Committee. On this committee, headed by Rep. Emmanuel Celler, D-N.Y., liberals of both parties dominate.

2. Under the urging of civil rights advocates they decided the Kennedy bill wasn't strong enough. So they scrapped Kennedy's proposal, although retaining some of it, and put together a much stronger one of their own.

It should be remembered that in this Congress, where there is a big gap between Southern and liberal Democrats, not all Republicans see eye to eye with their House leader, the conservative Charles Halleck of Indiana.

Instantly Kennedy was afraid this strong bill was too strong to pass in this overwhelmingly conservative Congress which, although run by huge Democratic majorities, has been less than ecstatic about a civil rights bill at all.

He sent his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to Celler's committee to plead for a softer bill. This didn't make a dent. So the President himself took a hand.

3. He began calling White House conferences, a number of them over several days, of Democratic and Republican leaders to ask them to use their weight to tone down the committee bill. He finally got his way.

But it was worked out in amazing fashion.

The Kennedy administration and Republicans in the House—but not House Democrats—worked out a compromise bill which Republicans agreed to and Democrats on the Celler committee were finally persuaded to accept.

4. So Tuesday at the House Judiciary Committee voted to scrap the strong bill its members had wanted and approved the one manufactured by the administration and the Republicans.

This is stronger than the first Kennedy bill but weaker than the one the Judiciary Committee wanted to substitute for it. It was promptly denounced as too weak by some of the leaders among the civil rights advocates.

And—the Kennedy administration was so grateful to the Republicans that the attorney general publicly praised them. Any chance of a civil rights bill becoming law this year without their help would have been remote.

It was an astonishing admission when it is remembered that in this Congress Democrats so far outnumber Republicans they could put anything through—if they operated as a single party and stuck together. But they don't.

At this point time begins to play its vital, perhaps fatal, part in the two big remaining steps.

5. It is now Oct. 30. It will take the Judiciary Committee 10 days or so to draft a report on the bill. Then this goes to the Rules Committee where it may be held up for a week or more before getting to the House for a vote.

That will mean past mid-November. Allowing for other delays, and the Thanksgiving Day holiday, it may be Dec. 1 before the Senate will or can start to act even though the House approves before then.

But, in order to try to kill the bill altogether, Senate Democrats from the South will filibuster. And there will be other jockeying. A filibuster can take weeks. Then the Christmas holidays intrude.

So it will be no surprise if a civil rights bill doesn't pass this year. Maybe it will in 1964.

HOME ON THE WAVES—They laughed when he backed down into the lake with his house trailer, but fellow in top photo has method in his madness. He's demonstrating something new for boating enthusiasts—an amphibious trailer which converts instantly to a houseboat. The 17-foot model can be transformed simply by rolling it into the water and attaching a pontoon unit that fits around the sides and rear, as shown in bottom photo. The unit supports the weight of the outside decks and gives the trailer additional stability. Tires and wheel parts do not have to be removed. With a 7½-horsepower motor, a speed top of six miles an hour can be achieved.

Ann Kenyon: Surgeon

By Adeline McElfresh

Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn. © 1960 Adeline McElfresh

THE STORY: Ann knows now that she was not in love with Brill Crayden. She has begun to feel warmly toward Dr. Peter McDonnal.

X

Dawn had touched the windows, and the topmost branches of the elm trees on the hospital lawn were beginning to be dark lace against the snow when Dr. McDonnal came. "I was hoping you would be awake," he said.

Ann smiled. "Oh, didn't you know? I've been doing surgery—in my wishful thinking, anyhow."

"I wish you had been!" Tired fingers massaged his temples. "It was a rugged deal, Ann. In addition to his other injuries, which were bad enough, the poor guy had five ribs fractured in three spatially separated areas, two of them splintered and ripping the pleura to pieces with every breath he took." With the look of a man wrung out, he sat down. "I'm not cut out for that kind of surgery." His grin was weak.

"He's alive, isn't he?" "Because God smiled on him. I'm a good work-horse type of surgeon, Ann. What we needed tonight was Em Lyle, you, Dr. Crayden. . . . That's one trouble with Ledbie Memorial, Ann."

He hesitated again—summing up the other things wrong with Ledbie Memorial? "You're good for me, Ann. Thanks for picking our hospital to get smacked up near."

"You're tired?" Understanding softened Ann's voice. "He was rising when Cass Ledwellyn came into the sun-porch. Dr. McDonnal," she was pseudo-stern, "you are disturbing my patients."

"Sorry, Cass. I was just going."

The sprinkling of freckles across her nose seemed to change positions as if in answer to some unheard signal when he smiled. "Well, breakfasts are coming along anyway. Get out of here while we wash faces and then why don't you have a cup of coffee with Dr. Kenyon? You could use it."

Spring had touched the top branches of the elm trees outside the sun-porch windows when Ann and Dr. McDonnal decided over a fresh batch of X-rays that she no longer needed to be in traction. "Five days over three months, Ann!" He sounded pleased as she felt, almost as pleased as she felt, that he was going home.

"Mine too." Something happened to her smile; she could feel it going tremulous. "Oh, Peter, sometimes I—I thought it would never end!"

He swept the X-rays, which showed perfect bone reunion, into their small stack without looking at her, saying gruffly as he did so, "Which doesn't mean you're to spend any three or four hours at a stretch in else back together, not for a while." Not for quite a while, he meant. She was going to have to learn to walk all over again, to coax back into legs kitten-weak from not being used the strength to walk even the length of the corridor outside her sun-porch. He looked at her then, the grin leaping from the twinkles of sunlight in his blue eyes which, Ann had decided, were touched with the tiniest bit of gray. "As your doctor, Doctor, congratulations!"

Ann took the outstretched hand, square and almost stubby-fingered but rock-steady and said, "As your patient, Doctor, thank you."

"That should go to Em Lyle, I'm afraid."

Rison to Vote Special Bonds

RISON, Ark. (AP)—A special election on a proposed $171,000 bond issue to help finance construction of a Cleveland County nursing home and additional facilities at the County Memorial Hospital has been set Dec. 10.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $450,000 and part of the cost will come from a federal grant.

The proposed bond issue will include a 1.5 mill tax increase.

Dentists Against Chocolate Milk

PINE BLUFF (AP)—The Arkansas Dental Association has passed a resolution asking school boards to eliminate the sale of chocolate milk from schools.

R. S. Hardin of North Little Rock, president, said the only advantage to chocolate milk is taste. Its sale in schools could lead to an increase in tooth decay, negating the benefits of flouridated water, he said.

Perhaps even that Dr. Lyle was afraid Peter might win Helen over to his way of thinking about the hospital, although she certainly didn't need to be in love with Peter in order to see that the hospital needed practically everything.

It was wonderful to be free again, to look at the ceiling without seeing cords and weights and pulleys and the overhead framework that had become so familiar, to ease her legs over the side of the bed and gently put her weight on them—and, but her around her, Miss Ledbie's arms and her, supporting her, crumple.

"Easy does it, Ann," Dr. McDonnal advised, and Dave Clyde, who'd just come to the sun-porch, remarked chucklingly, "She's like all the rest of them. Pete. Too eager. . . . how does it feel, Ann, to be standing on your own two feet again?"

"At the moment I'm not," she said, clinging to Peter and Miss Ledbie, "I'm standing on about ten thousand suturing needles, and oh-h-h-h-h!"

Solution for Farm Price Squeeze

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—The price squeeze on the farmer is getting tighter and tighter, the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation said Tuesday night, and the solution is to get the federal government out of agriculture.

Charles B. Shuman, in an address to about 900 members of farm families at St. Joseph's 20th Annual Balanced Farming Dinner, said there are three ways to end government farm programs:

- Get Congress to vote them down.
- Vote them down in referendum.
- Stop using them.

Over a period of 30 years of government in agriculture, we have seen only failure to achieve results," he said. "But still, our administration wants to continue to tell farmers how to run their farms because our leaders don't think we're wise enough to do it."

Shuman congratulated wheat farmers for decisively defeating controls in the May referendum and predicted they will be better off on prices, contrary to warnings by the administration.

Shuman said prices of farm products fell about ½ of 1 per
